With my experience as an OR Nurse I know the importance of the end product that Sterile Processing produces. I'm constantly evaluating our processes and looking for improvements to provide better patient outcomes. I look to implement lean processes which provides our facilities cost savings. Every day is a learning opportunity within the health care world. I have worked hard to encourage my teammates to become Certified Instrument Techs. We have a 100% pass rate within my department. One of my goals for NCAHCSP is to promote Sterile Processing as a professional group of employees. This is not just a job it is a profession, one that requires we approach everyday passionately. I feel we should all be proud to hold such responsibility and feel honored to get to do what we love day in and day out.
